12th July, 2016

Hi brother,

How are you and everyone at home? I hope you and Tom are working every hard at school.

I have written to inform you about the trip I have arranged for you and your friend, Tom. I will be coming home in December to take you to Sipi Falls in Kapchorwa. It's an exciting site to view. You will also see donkeys. They are the main means of transport in that area. I hope Tom's parents will allow him to travel with us. Fortunately, the company I am working for has given me a new double – cabin pick – up for official use.

Greetings to everyone at home.

Your brother,

Brian.

Oh, mobile telephone,
What a wonderful device you are!
Everybody desires to have you,
You are very convenient to use
Because you are portable,
You can be used at any time,
And in any place.

Oh, mobile telephone,
You have various functions in you,
You provide different services for your users,
A clock to tell time,
A calendar to show the date,
A calculator for calculating with numbers,
A torch to give light in the dark,

A radio and a music player for entertainment,
Internet for communication,
And many more.

Oh, mobile telephone,
Capable of sending text and voice messages,
No pen, paper or stamp needed,
No misplacement or delays in delivery.

Oh, mobile telephone,
You are very good but expensive to maintain,
You need a SIM card,
You need airtime to make a call,
And your battery needs charging now and then.
