My name is John Manyindo. My first time at the bank was at the beginning of term one when I was in Primary Five, at ten years of age. Daddy filled the school pay-in-slips and told me to go and deposit my school fees in Akezimbira Bank in Kamengo Town.

When I reached the bank, I went to the customer care table to ask about the banking process. I was advised by the gentleman whom I found at the table to join the queue. I did as I was advised. However, the line in which I stood could hardly move as it was very long. After standing for half an hour, I finally managed to get to the counter where the teller was. He received my school bank pay-in-slips, checked, signed and stamped them. After a while, the teller called out my name and handed me two copies, one for the school and another for the parent. He therefore remained with the bank copy.

I kept the two copies in my school bag and went to school. As soon as I reached school, I gave the school copy to the bursar and she made a receipt and clearance card for me.
