SECTION B:

51. Read the passage below and in full sentences, answer the questions that follow.

PERSONAL LETTERS AND INVITATIONS.

We write letters to our friends and relatives to tell them about the good or bad things that may have happened.

These are called friendly or personal letters.

A personal letter should show the writer's address or a place of contact.

This is very useful to the addressee in case one would like to write a reply.

The addressee is the person to whom the letter is being written. The address should show a Box number and a city or town where the Post Office is. In some countries an address indicates the road, street or avenue and the house number where one stays or works.

The date on which the letter was written is important. The salutation or form of greeting is a simple word like "Dear" followed by a name. The writer may then write the "body" which includes all the things one intends to say or tell the reader in the letter. Some writers are fond of including many interesting things. This should be written in good language, handwriting with correct spellings and punctuation.

This makes a letter look neat. In order to make sure that there is no mistake, it good to read the letter through before posting it.

All letters that are posted should bear a postage stamp.

You can then be sure that the letter will reach its destination.

Questions.

1. Write the other name for a personal letter?

2. Why do we write personal letters?

3. What should a personal letter show?

4. What should one do before sealing the letter?

5. What is the importance of a house or a plot number on some letters?

6. What does one write at the end of a personal letter?

7. What should an address have?

8. Who is an addressee?

9. Why should letters be written in good handwriting?

10. Which word can be used instead of destination?

52. Study the notice carefully and in full sentences, answer questions that follow.
