PEACE AND SECURITY IN BUTEBENKEVU VILLAGE

In Butebenkevu village, people love peace and security. Their local council one chairperson, Mr. Patrick Lusania usually encourages them to work together as a community to maintain peace and security all the time.

In order to achieve their goal, the chairperson Mr. Patrick Lusania organizes peace and security meetings every last Sunday of the month. During this meeting, the citizens suggest and pass resolutions on various ways of promoting peace and security in this village.

At the entrance of the chairman's office, there is a village motto which says "Together we can achieve peace and security in Butebenkevu village". One day, a young boy called Luba was found trying to steal the neighbour's goat. The owner of the goat saw him and made an alarm which assembled many people. They wanted to set him on fire but fortunately, the chairman arrived and called the police immediately.

Luba was taken to the police station to make a statement. The O.C warned him about the danger of stealing. When the police set him free, Luba promised to be a very hardworking boy and a good citizen.
